The image consists of three vertical panels, each showing a different texture of a wall. The left panel is dark and textured. The middle panel is a mottled grey-green with a small, light-colored circular mark near the bottom. The right panel is a lighter, more uniform grey-green. Each panel has a painted fern leaf in a different color (yellow-green, light green, and dark green respectively) positioned at the top. The title 'Architecture & Matière' is written in a white, cursive script across the bottom of the three panels.
